POETICAL.

LIEUT.-GENERAL SCOTT.

His long life-march is ended,
His battles fought and won;
With solemn voices blended,
Of drum bell and gun,
Lay him down
Whose renown
Is an unsetting sun.

The measured tramp of battle
Beats in his pulse no more;
He hears no more the rattle,
He heeds no more the roar,
Fixed within
By the din
On bloody fields of yore.

In him through years unsleeping
The early conflicts lay,
His great, still spirit keeping
The fight of Chippeway,
Lundy's Lane
Through the grain
Struck deeper than the bay.

And D'Ulloa's towers within him,
And Cerro Gordo's height,
Like giants watched to win him
From life's small, creeping blight;
High and calm
In their psalm
He kept the way of right.

And Aztec halls repeating
His firm victorious tread,
Found in his spirit meeting
Fit for their mighty dead;
Weaker men
Ne'er again
Their influence around him shed.

In time when others faltered
Before the storm that blew,
His mighty soul unaltered
By error's specious view,
Stormed in vain,
With no strain
Stood up unmoved and true.

And he, in mercy loving,
Through weariness of years
Was kept unto the proving
Of hopes that knew not fears;
Gentle then—
First of men—
He passed and left us tears.

His long life-march is ended,
His battles fought and won;
With solemn voices blended;
Of drum and bell and gun,
Lay him down
Whose renown
Is an unsetting sun.

THE REWARD OF COURTESY.

A TRUE ACCOUNT.

A few years since, on a radiant spring afternoon, two men, who from their conversation appeared to be foreigners, stopped before the gate of one of the large workshops in Philadelphia for the manufacture of locomotive engines. Entering a small office, the elder of the two men inquired of the superintendent in attendance if he could permit him to inspect the works.

"You can pass in and look about if you please," said the superintendent, who seemed apparently at being interrupted in the perusal of his newspaper. He scanned the two strangers more closely. They were respectably but plain clad, and evidently made no pretensions to official dignity of any kind. "Is there any one who can show us over the establishment and explain matters to us?" asked Mr. Wolf, the elder of the two strangers.

"You must pick your own way, gentlemen," replied the superintendent; "we are all too busy to attend to every party that comes along. I'll thank you not to interrupt the workmen by asking questions."

It was not so much the matter as the manner of the reply, that was offensive to Mr. Wolf and his companion. It was spoken with a certain tone of assumption of superiority, mingled with contempt for the visitors, indicating a haughty and selfish temper on the part of the speaker.

"I think we will not trouble you," said Mr. Wolf, bowing, and taking his companion's arm, they passed out.

"If there is anything I dislike, it is incivility," said Mr. Wolf, when they were in the street. "I do not blame the man for not wishing to show us over his establishment; he is no doubt annoyed and interrupted by many needless visitors, but he might have dismissed us with courtesy. He might have sent us away better content with a gracious refusal than with such a ungracious consent."

"Perhaps," said the other stranger, "we shall have better luck here;" and they stopped before another workshop of a similar kind. They were received by a brisk little man, the head clerk apparently, who in reply to their request to be shown over the establishment, answered, "O, yes! come with me, gentlemen. This way." So saying, he hurried them along the arena covered with iron, brass, broken and rusty heels of iron, fragments of old boilers and cylinders into the principal workshop.

Here, without stopping to explain any one thing, he led the strangers along with the evident intention of getting rid of them as soon as possible. When they passed where the workmen were riveting the external casing of a boiler, the clerk looked at his watch, tapped his foot against an iron tube, and showed other signs of impatience, whereupon Mr. Wolf remarked: "We will not detain you any longer, sir," and with his friend took leave.

"This man is an improvement on the other," said Mr. Wolf, "but all the civility he has is on the surface; it does not come from the heart. We must look further."

The strangers walked on for nearly a half mile in silence, when one of them pointed to an humble sign, with a picture of a locomotive engine with a train of cars underneath. It overtopped a small building not more than ten feet in height, communicating with a yard and workshop. "Look," said the observer, "here is a machinist whose name is not on our list." Probably it was thought too small a concern for our purpose," said his companion. "Nevertheless let us try," said Mr. Wolf.

They entered, and found at the desk a middle-aged man, whose somewhat grimy aspect and apron around his waist, showed that he divided his labors between the workshop and counting room.

"We want to look over your works, if you have no objection," said Mr. Wolf.

"It will give me great pleasure to show you all that is to be seen," said the mechanic, with a pleased alacrity, ringing a bell, telling the boy who entered to take charge of the office.

He then led the way, and explained to the strangers the whole process of constructing a locomotive engine. He showed them how the various parts of the machinery were manufactured, and patiently answered all their questions. He then told them of an improved mode of tubing boilers, by which the power of generating steam was increased, and showed with what care he provided for security from bursting.

Two hours passed rapidly away.—The strangers were delighted with the intelligence displayed by the mechanic, and with his frank, attentive and unsuspicious manners.

"Here is a man who loves his profession so well, that he takes pleasure in explaining its mysteries to all who can understand them," said Mr. Wolf.

"I am afraid we have given you a deal of trouble," said the other stranger.

"Indeed, gentlemen, I have enjoyed your visit," said the mechanic, "and I shall be glad to see you again."

"Perhaps you may," said Mr. Wolf, and the strangers departed.

Five months afterwards, as the mechanic, whose means were quite limited, sat in his office meditating how hard it was to get business by the side of such large establishments as were his competitors, the two strangers entered. He gave them a hearty welcome, handed chairs and all sat down.

"We come," said Mr. Wolf, "with a proposition to you from the Emperor of Russia, to visit St. Petersburg."

"From the Emperor? Impossible!"

"Here are your credentials."

"But, gentlemen," said the now agitated mechanic, "what does this mean? How have I earned such an honor?"

"Simply by your straightforward courtesy and frankness, combined with professional intelligence," said Mr. Wolf. "Because we were strangers you did not think it necessary to treat us with coldness or distrust. You measured us by the spirit we showed, and not by the dignities we might have exhibited."

The mechanic visited St. Petersburg, and soon afterwards removed his whole establishment there. He had Imperial orders there for as many locomotive engines as he could construct. He has lately returned to his own country, and is still receiving large returns from his Russian workshop. And all this prosperity grew out of his unselfish civility to two strangers, one of whom was the secret Agent of the Czar of Russia.

Malignant Christians.

Some person pride themselves on being blunt, or, as they call it, "honest;" but very blunt people do little good to others and get little love to themselves. The Scriptures recommend gentleness and kindness. There is nothing in all this world of ours half so mean as a vindictive and malignant disposition. Yet many Christians gratify this spirit, and deceive themselves with the idea that they are rebuking sin. Christians should take heed of getting fond of the work of 'rebuking.' Such 'spiritual constables' do a great deal of mischief without intending it. They are in the church what a very witty and sarcastic person is in society, or what a tell-tale is in school; and approximate very closely to that class which the apostle terms 'busybodies in other men's matters.' Such Christians come in time to be regarded as nuisances in society, constantly to be avoided, and the little good they may do is thrown away.—Our manner must be tender and winning. The nail to reproof, says an old writer, must be well oiled in kindness before it is driven home.—Boston Recorder.

A LADY asked a noted doctor if he did not think the small bonnets the ladies wore had a tendency to produce a congestion of the brain. "Oh, no," he replied, "ladies who have brains don't wear them."

A Legal Anecdote

H. T. Tuckerman, in a recent volume of essays entitled "The Criterion in the test of Talk about Familiar Things," just published, tells the following amusing anecdote: "A venerable justice in one of our cities was remarkable for the frequent reproofs he administered to young practitioners in his court, and the formal harangues with which he wore out the patience of those so unfortunate as to give testimony in his presence. On one occasion it happened that he was summoned as a witness in a case to be defended by one of the juvenile members of the bar whom he had often called to order with needless severity. This hopeful limb of the law was gifted with more than a common share of the cool assurance so requisite in the profession and determined to improve the opportunity to make his 'learned friend" of the bench feel the stinging he so often inflicted. Accordingly, when his honor took the stand, the council inquired facts of his personal history—though all were familiar to himself and every one present as the old church, or main street of their native town. The queries were put in a voice and with a manner so exactly imitated from that of the Judge himself as to convulse the audience with laughter; every unnecessary word the hampered witness used was reprimanded as beyond the question; he was continually adjured "to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth;" he was tantalized with repetitions and cross questions about the veriest trifles; and finally, his tormentor, with a face of the utmost gravity, pretended to discover in the witness a levity of bearing, and equivocal replies, which called for a lecture on "the responsibility of an oath;" this was delivered with a pedantic solemnity, in words, accent and gestures so like one of his own addresses from the bench, that judge, jury and spectators burst forth into irresistable peals of laughter; and the subject of this clever retaliation lost all self-possession, grew red and pale by turns, fumed, and at last protested, until his young adversary wound up the farce by a threat to commit him for contempt of court.

The True Standard of Dress.

We are always excessive when we sacrifice the higher beauty to attain the lower one. A woman who will sacrifice domestic affection conscience, self-respect, honor, to love, or dress, we all agree, loves dress too much.—She loses the true and higher beauty of womanhood for the lower beauty of gems and flowers and colors. A girl who sacrifices to dress all her time, all her strength, all her money, to the neglect of the cultivation of her mind and heart, and to the neglect of the claims of others on her helpfulness, is sacrificing the higher to the lower beauty. Her fault is not the love of beauty, but loving the wrong and inferior kind.

In fine, girls, you may try yourselves by this standard. You love dress too much when you care more for your outward adornings than for your inward dispositions, when it afflicts you more to have torn your dress than to have lost your temper—when you are more troubled by an ill-fitting gown than by a neglected duty—when you are less concerned at having made an unjust comment, or spread a scandalous report, than at having worn a passee bonnet—when you are less troubled at the thought of being found at the last great feast without the wedding garment, than at being found at the party to-night in the fashion of last year. No Christian woman, as I view it, ought to give such attention to her dress as to allow it to take up all of three important things, viz: all her time, all her strength, all her money. Whoever does this lives not the Christian but the Pagan life—worships not at the Christian's altar of our Lord Jesus, but at the shrine of the lower Venus of Corinth and Rome.—Mrs. Stowe.

TRIBULATIONS OF A PHILANTHROPIST.—Of course, everybody remembers Mercer, the sympathetic individual, who conceived the bright idea of supplying the matrimonial market of Washington Territory by importations of blooming spinsters from the New England States. It is not yet forgotten what a sorry time he had of it here—how he was sued by disgusted aspirants for Western matrimony, and how he set sail, with the echoes of wrathful females ringing in his ears. It now seems that his troubles here were only the commencement. From our California and Washington Territory exchanges we learn that Mercer is now running a gauntlet of prosecutions in both of these regions. So far as we can judge from the reports, his assorted cargo of loveliness failed to suit the demands of the Pacific coast bachelors, and consequently very few investments were made. The spinsters are now after Mercer, savagely demanding that he shall fulfill his agreement by finding them somebody to marry, and the probability is that they will distract him to such a pitch that he will turn Mormon and marry the whole lot himself. Poor Mercer!—New York Sun.

A GAROTER attacked a bruiser in Cincinnati one night last week, and demanded his fives. He got them—in the way of shoulder hits, and was left in a bleeding, senseless condition.

Raising the Devil.

Everybody has heard of Lorenzo Dow, the eccentric itinerant preacher. Belated one night in his travels, he entered, quite unceremoniously, an out-of-the-way house and requested lodgings. The woman objected, having for a friend one whom Lorenzo soon ascertained was not her husband. But Lorenzo insisted, and she at length consented, immediately fastening, against other unwelcome visitors, the outside door of the house. Soon a loud knocking was heard. It was her husband unexpectedly returned. Unable to leave the house, the friend, to conceal himself, jumped into a large box, and hastily covered himself with the hatchelings of flax it contained; by which time the wife had unfastened the door, and admitted her husband. Having spent the evening at the tavern, he was just tipsy enough to be both boisterous and courageous. He soon made the acquaintance of Lorenzo, whom he had heard much of but never seen. He had been told that he could raise the devil, and he insisted upon him immediately doing so; not that he believed in any; but, if there was one, he wanted to see him. In vain Lorenzo objected, protesting his unwillingness and the danger attending it, etc., but the more than half drunken husband insisted. At last said Lorenzo:

"If you are determined to see him, open the door, put out the light, and stand out of the way, or he may take you with him; for, when he comes, it will be in a flame of fire, and I warn you of the consequences."

Lighting a bunch of matches, that there might be a greater smell of brimstone, and muttering over a few unintelligible sentences, Lorenzo set fire to the hatchelings, and cried out—

"Come forth, thou evil one, and be-gone forever!"

Out sprang the man, completely enveloped in flames, and put for the open door, leaving the house, with a most unearthly yell.

To his dying day, the husband was ready to testify that Lorenzo not only could, but in his presence, did raise the devil; for he had seen and smelt him.

Where the Danger Lies.

Hon. Glenni W. Scofield, Member of Congress from Warren District of this State, in a speech in that body recently, set forth the great danger to our institutions which the success of the Democratic policy of Reconstruction would create. He showed that, if the entire South should be permitted to take part in the next Presidential election, it would, in conjunction with the Border States of Kentucky, Missouri, Maryland and Delaware, and only three of the strongly Copperhead States of the North, New York, New Jersey and Connecticut be able to elect a President and Congress of the same political stamp, and so take hold of the reins of government and undo all the beneficial effects of the war and inflict positive hardships upon the loyal masses of the country. We quote from his summary of evils which would be certain to follow such a Rebel Victory—for Rebel victory it would be indeed:

"Pensions must then be surrendered, or divided with Confederate claimants; service in the Union Army, would be an impediment to political success, and the Treasury, supplied by the industry and economy of the North, would be steadily absorbed in Confederate damages. Then your creditors might count their worthless bonds and learn exactly how much it cost to reclaim their fugitive masters. Then the pensionless widows and orphans of our valiant dead might bemoan in poverty and neglect the ingratitude of a Republic saved by a husband's and father's blood. And then our surviving soldiers must conceal their honorable scars to save an humble position in the Capital they helped to preserve—for the enemy. Then, sir, we will all see, feel and realize what the opposition in different phraseology constantly assert, that the object of the war was to force the Rebels to become our rulers."

A STRONG, hearty, lazy fellow, who preferred begging for a precarious subsistence to working for a sure one, called at a house of a blunt Massachusetts farmer, and, in the usual language of his race, asked for "cold victuals and old clothes."

"You appear to be a stout, hearty-looking man," said the farmer, "what do you for a living?"

"Why, not much," replied the fellow, "except traveling about from one place to another."

"Traveling about, eh?" rejoined the farmer, "can you travel well?"

"O yes," returned the sturdy beggar, "I am pretty good at that."

"Well, then," said the farmer, coolly opening the door, "let's see you travel!"

AN old sea captain, who was in the habit of spending his time while in port among a set of hard drinking fellows, returned to his hotel one evening in a partially intoxicated condition. In going up to his room, he walked out of the window, in the second story, and landed upon the pavement. Fortunately he was not injured by the descent, and upon going back into the house, met the landlord "Look here, Mr. ——," says he, "if you don't shorten the steps in your stairs, I won't stop with you any more."

[From the Louisville Journal.]

FAREWELL.

Farewell, farewell, a long adieu,
I whisper ere you go!
Its echo falls upon my heart,
Though whispered soft and low.
Hark, ye! What mournful sound is that?
It is the parting bell,
And sighing, throbbing, on its breast,
Lies my heart's sad farewell.
Such a moaning and a groaning
Is heard from this old bell.
How it throbs and sadly sobs
As it groans the long farewell.

The gloomy hour comes rolling by
When you and I must sever.
We, who have loved so long and well,
Perhaps part now forever.
The winter winds in black array
Go wildly shrieking by,
And as they pass their hollow voice
Is whispering good bye.
Hear the sighing and the crying
Of the hollow winter wind,
As round your heart, ere we part,
Their icy arms are twined.

And must we part? Well, be it so;
Alas! I know it well.
The rod of separation moves,
And I hear the parting bell.
We part, I fear, to meet no more
On earth, where pleasures fade.
But may we meet where crowns of light
And wreaths of truth are made—
Where bright, bright day ne'er fades away—
Where holy angels dwell—
Where spirits move through fields of love—
Where's breathed no sad farewell.

An Anecdote of Gen. Scott.

That Gen. Scott was of hasty and irascible temper in these latter years, no one knew better than himself.—That he was as ready to recall as to utter an unjust rebuke is not, perhaps, as well known to the public as it should be. On one occasion, while coming out of his headquarters at Washington city, an orderly stepped up with, as it appeared afterward, a letter from one of the Bureaus of the War Department, which he had been directed to deliver to General Scott at once—of course to his adjutant general or chief of staff. The willing but not well learned volunteer interpreted his order literally, however; and carelessly giving the salute, began: "Oh, General, here's a paper I want you to look at before you——"

The haughty veteran of fourscore seemed dumbfounded for just one or two seconds, and then straightening to his full height, and raising his cane, with a sudden sweep of the arm—I think he had a cane—he exclaimed, in a weighty voice: "Clear out, sir—clear out!" The astonished orderly sprang away, and the General passed to his carriage and was driven off.—The carriage was driven no more than twenty or thirty rods before it turned about, and the driver called to the unfortunate orderly. He of course met it with hat in hand and fear in every quivering muscle. He was beckoned to the door, and the General asked his name and regiment—as he told two or three immediately after ward. He gave both, and the General answered "Well, sir, report to your Colonel that you were guilty of gross disrespect to General Scott as an officer, and that General Scott was guilty of gross disrespect to you as a man. General Scott begs your pardon. Go to your duty, sir."

LOYAL MEN PERSECUTED.—There are reports from Richmond, on good authority, that two gentlemen, long residents of that city, who were on the grand jury which found a true bill against Jefferson Davis, have already been so marked and made the object of persecution in their social and business relations, that they have been compelled to close up their business, and are making preparations to leave the city. Such facts are a sorry commentary on the progress of loyalty and conciliation in the late rebel capital.

DISAGREEABLE POPULARITY.—A Massachusetts paper remarks that Mr. George Peabody, now at Georgetown, Mass., is daily reminded that his fame has penetrated every village as well as city in this country, by the numerous appeals for him to show charity, in behalf of this or that person, or object; every mail brings him solicitations, some of them being of the most ridiculous nature. Of course no attention is paid to any of them.

A UTAH letter speaks of one of Brigham Young's sons as follows: "Joseph, or 'Joe' Young, as he is familiarly known in Utah, is a fast young man. He has been on a 'mission,' travelled in Europe, smokes, chews, gets drunk, swears, preaches the gospel, has three wives, whom he whips and otherwise shamefully abuses, and is a good Mormon, in full fellowship with the Church."

AMONG the curiosities of English justice is mentioned that a man was lately found guilty of manslaughter for killing an old woman by furious driving, and sentenced to eight months imprisonment, while a woman has been sent into penal servitude for seven years for stealing a yard of ribbon valued at 6d.

DE LAVE, the acrobat, proposes to walk a wire stretched over Niagara Falls, carrying his wife and son on his back.

Increasing Immigration.

The great immigrant emporium of this country, New York, shows the arrival of 40,049 aliens in May, mostly from Europe. There were 10,132 in January, 6236 in February, 14,831 in March, 17,462 in April, and 40,049 in May, or 88,710 in five months. This is at the rate of more than 265,000 per annum. The total arrivals for five months in 1865 were 48,225, or 44,125 less than in the current year. The total immigration of 1865 was but 196,347. We have, therefore, seven months left in the most favorable season of the year to secure the 107,637 new comers needed to make our current returns equal to those of 1865, while the figures just given are so much in excess. The rate of increase, if continued—and it promises to grow—will give us 875,000 for the year, or some 56,000 more than in 1854, when the greatest immigration to this country took place.

There is a good reason for presumming that the immigration of the hot months and of the fall will exceed that of the months past. The more settled condition of this country, the greater demand for labor, the growing knowledge of the facts abroad; the unsettled condition of Ireland and of Germany, whence the bulk of our immigration proceeds, as well as the general tendency of Europeans to come to the States, favor the expectation of large arrivals. Such arrivals will in a short time do more than make up the tale of our losses by war, and compensate us numerically for our suffering. We are happy to meet these facts, and shall look forward with more confidence to what the future has in store for us.—Phila. North American.

THE ARAB'S PROOF.—Some years ago a Frenchman who, like many of his countrymen, had won a high rank among men of science, yet who denied the God who is the author of all science, was crossing the Great Sahara in company with an Arab guide.—He noticed with a sneer that at certain times his guide, whatever obstacle might arise, put them all aside, and kneeling on the burning sands, called on his God.

Day after day passed, and still the Arab never failed; till at last one evening the philosopher, when he arose from his knees, asked him with a contemptuous smile, "how do you know there is a God?" The guide fixed his burning eye on the scoffer for a moment in wonder, and then said, solemnly, "how do I know there is a God? How did I know that a man and a camel passed my hut last night in the darkness? Was it not by the print of his foot in the sand? Even so! and he pointed to the sun, whose last rays were flashing over the lonely desert, "that footprint is here that of man!"

ANNA DICKINSON, in a Woman's Rights meeting at Boston lately gave some reminiscenses of her early life. She had done hard manuel labor sewed, taught, copied letters, stood in a store, worked in a Mint, before she chose the platform as a profession. Miss Dickinson brought down the house in enthusiastic applause when she said that the first money she ever earned was by scrubbing walks in Philadelphia, and that she was actuated to undertake the labor by a determination to obtain the means to buy a ticket to hear Wendell Phillips lecture.

THE Keowa (S. C.) Courier publishes an appeal to the citizens of Pickens, signed by some of the most influential men in the community, in behalf of the poor in its vicinage. The Courier says there are not less than eight hundred families, or an aggregate population of four thousand, allowing an average of five souls to a family, on the point of starvation in that district. Of these, at least two thousand are widows and orphans, almost entirely helpless, and made so by the misfortunes of war.

A NUMBER of young Germans engaged in commercial pursuits are now compelled to leave London, having received orders to join the Prussian and Saxon armies. If they do not obey the summons they lose rights of citizenship, and any property they may inherit is forfeited.

MAJOR JAMES F. MILLIGAN, the chief of the signal corps of General Lee's army of Northern Virginia, has been offered a similar position in the Imperial army of Austria by the Emperor Francis Joseph.

THE planters of Texas have organized a joint stock company with a capital of $1,000,000, to employ agents whose duty it shall be to visit Europe and induce the immigration of laborers to that State.

"SAM," said a mother to one of her "very obedient" sons one day, "how many logs have you sawed, eh?"—"Why, marm, when I get this un and three others sawed, I'll have four."

THE insignificant tax of one cent on every box of matches sold in the United States, netted the Treasury last year $500,000.

"Now, my little boys and girls," said a teacher, "I want you to be very still—so still that you can hear a pin drop." For a minute all was still, and a little boy shrieked, "Let her drop!"

Farm, House, &c.

THE CRANBERRY.—A correspondent asks for information about the culture of the cranberry—whether it can be successfully grown on dry land. We think not as a profitable market crop. A supply for home use might thus be grown. This berry requires moisture, not stagnant water in the subsoil, or on the surface, but pure water within easy easy reach of its roots. Some lowland meadows are excellent. As to soil, sand, is acknowledged to be the best. Pure beach sand stands highest in the estimation of the cranberry growers of Cape Cod, which is one of the strongholds of the berry. The best way for a beginner in the business of cranberry growing is to visit those localities where they are already extensively planted, and learn from actual examination the method of planting and culture. It is essential to procure the best varieties from good yards. One should not purchase plants without previous knowing something about the stock from which they are taken. One great object is to prepare the ground so as to keep it free from weeds until the vines become matted. A good method of planting is to cut the vines into two-inch pieces with a hay-cutting machine machine, sow them on the prepared ground and drag them in.—Rural New Yorker.

LOOK OUT FOR BEE MILLERS.—Now is the time to get rid of the miller for the summer. If you kill every worm in your own hives you will have no trouble with them unless you have careless bee keepers in your own neighborhood. Examine the bottom boards every morning, the bees will do their part and gnaw them from the combs, when it you do yours as well and kill all that are dropped, you will save yourself much trouble in the future. A few moments spent in this way will avail you more than all the "moth traps" ever invented. The miller has no terror for careful bee keepers with strong colonies.

TOMATO SOUP A LA OYSTERS.—To one quart of canned tomatoes, or others which have been boiled about 15 minutes, add 2 quarts water and boil 15 minutes more; then drop in carefully a little at a time, enough pulverized saleratus or soda to neutralize the acidity, which you may know by its ceasing to foam—usually about an even teaspoonful to a quart. Then add one quart of rich milk, six or eight crackers pounded finely; butter, salt and pepper as for oysters; let it boil up, and serve immediately. It strongly reminds one of oysters, and is very nice for sick persons as well as highly palatable for well ones.

COOKING BEEF STEAK.—Prepare the steak by pounding and otherwise, as for boiling. Have ready a pan quite hot; grease it as for bread, lay in the steak, turn frequently to prevent its adhering to the pan until the juice is extracted. When cooked through, turn the gravy upon a platter in which has been previously put about half the usual quantity of butter, with a little water. Slightly brown the steak on both sides, then take up, and boil up a little water in the pan, to secure any remaining juices; season as desired. By this method a much larger and richer amount of gravy is obtained, with less butter, than by the usual process.

TO KEEP CREAM SWEET.—A good deal depends upon the proper management of the cream, if the churning does not take place every day, as it ought to where the dairy is large enough to warrant it. If it is to be kept till the quantity is sufficient to make up a churning, put it into a stone jar, in a cool place, and, when fresh cream is added, let it be thoroughly stirred in, and a very little fine salt added. In this way it may be kept sweet several days.

TAKE CARE OF TREES.—He who has planted trees has done well, but he who has watched them and cared for their early growth has done better.—There need be very little said about pruning, were the young trees properly looked after. The rubbing off a superfluous bud here, pinching a rampant shoot there, and the judicious use of the pocket knife, as occasion requires, will soon put a young orchard in the way it should go.

FLY DESTROYER.—A correspondent writes that the following simple preparation, originating with her servant, has proved very effective: "Beat up the yelk of an egg with a tablespoonful each of molasses and finely ground black pepper; set about in shallow plates every two or three days for a week, and the flies will be rapidly destroyed, and may be swept up in handfuls."

CATTLE.—It can never be too much impressed upon the minds of agriculturists that without dung there is no corn—without cattle there is no dung. Every means should, therefore, be used to encourage the breeding and feeding of cattle, and none can be more effectual than to show that the profits of a farm are always proportioned to the number of cattle kept, and the abundance of food prepared for them.

Mr. B. P. Johnson, President of the New York State Agricultural Society, gives official notification of the existence of Rinderpest among the cows in the cities of New York and Brooklyn.

Dr. JOHN MURRAY, Bridgewater;
Dr. DAVID STANTON, N. Brighton;

THE attack made upon the present Board of Commissioners, by the Copperhead party of this county, is purely malicious. While we do not pretend to justify every expenditure the Commissioners may make, or assert that every day spent is absolutely required by the business of the office, yet we do say that the Commissioners act in good faith; and if they err it is an honest error, and they are justified by the precedents of those who occupied the office before them. We further assert that there is less unnecessary time spent, less money applied, less abuses in the office now than during the time the Democrats had control of the office. As we have heretofore stated, the Board was Democratic from 1849 to 1855. During these years most shameful abuses were tolerated, and the people's money wasted like water.

The attack made by that party led to an investigation of expenditures of those years, and our readers will be as much surprised as we were to see how the finances of the county were managed. We have only space now to give a few items.

In 1852, Sholes, Potter and Plants, all Democrats, composed the Board of Commissioners. They paid, at one time, L. Whitsell, Democratic County Treasurer, $8,52 brokerage, and expenses to Pittsburg. Who ever heard of a Treasurer, before or since, being paid his expenses to Pittsburg? The Treasurer receives a per centage large enough, in all conscience, for his services, and yet these men pay his expenses.

In July, 1852, Sholes charged and received $25,50 extra for transcribing lists, which was a part of the regular duties of the office, and $1,75 incidental expenses for the same. Plants charged, for the same, $19,50, and $4,35 incidental expenses.

In August, Potter charged for five days as Commissioner, and for the same time charged $5,25 incidental expenses. Plants, for three days, and $1,88 incidental expenses.

In October, Potter charged $3,50 incidental expenses, Sholes $3,75, and Plants $7,63.

In November, Potter charged $3,25 incidental expenses, Sholes $2,50, and Plants $2,00.

January, 1853, Plants $2,07, and for qualifying Township officers, a part of his regular duties, $18,00 extra. Ritchie, expenses, $22,25.

January, Sholes, Plants and Richie, each $4,30 incidentals.

February 15, for incidental expenses Sholes charged $25,25, Plants $31,62, Ritchie $32,00. In the name of all the wonders, what become of that money? Where was the necessity of spending almost a hundred dollars in one month for incidental expenses?

March, Ritchie charged $32,00, and Plants $40,00, incidental expenses. Sholes $20,00 FOR DISTRIBUTING TICKETS!

Here, again, is almost one hundred dollars charged as "incidental expenses" in March. Thus it continued during all the time the Board remained Democratic.

Here we have abuses in earnest.—Search the records over since the change in the Board, and under Republican rule not one tithe of the amounts charged as "incidental expenses" during Democratic administration, is now charged.

At one time we see Plants was paid two dollars and fifty cents for going to Pittsburg to buy seven dollars' worth of paper. If Democrats want to compare notes we are ready, and challenge them to do so. We have only commenced, and yet we have presented facts and figures sufficient to alarm tax-payers. These are the men who now are crying out against honest office-holders, and again wish to be reinstated in office. Look at the above figures, and then say who is chargeable with mismanagement. These are the men who invited the comparison, and take records of that or any other office under their management, and compare with the same under Republican rule, and we will find in every such comparison that in the change tax-payers have gained and money been saved to the county. Before these men can expect the people of Beaver county to support them, they must be able to show a better record.

That Railroad Subscription.

The editor of the Local makes an evasive reply to our charge last week that the last Democratic Board of Commissioners, composed of Col. Sholes, J. C. Ritchie and W. C. Plants, had actually squandered one hundred thousand dollars of the people's money. That a Grand Jury recommended the loaning of the credit of the county to the C. & P. Railroad to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars, we do not deny; but we do assert, and are prepared to prove, that the President of the road only asked for a loan of the credit of the county, and offered in return to give the county a first mortgage on this end of the road for the amount, and that that offer was refused by the county Commissioners, and instead thereof a subscription was made to the road, and no security taken. Had the Democratic Commissioners taken the security tendered, the county would never have lost one dollar by the road. If the money had not been paid, the county would have owned the road between Rochester and the Ohio State line, which would now be worth half a million dollars at least. In reality, then, the county lost hundreds of thousands, principal and interest, by the action of the Democratic Commissioners. Had they discharged their duty properly, Beaver county would have owned no stock on which either to lose or make money. We deny further that the Commissioners made the subscription with great reluctance. The following is a copy of the resolution:

"July 15, 1853. Board of Commissioners of Beaver county all being in session, and all present, passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the county Commissioners, on behalf of the county of Beaver, do this day agree to subscribe one thousand shares stock in the Pittsburg and Cleveland Railroad, to be paid in county bonds thirty years after date, with interest, payable semi-annually, which interest the company agrees to pay as it falls due, and deduct it from the dividends which may accrue to the county of Beaver from the aforesaid stock.

Attest: H. B ANDERSON, Cl'k."

Any sign of hesitation about the above resolution? We are further prepared to prove that Col. Sholes went to members of the Grand Jury that recommended the loaning of money to the company, and urged the passage of such a recommendation; that he went at least to one man who was opposed to the movement, and took him by the shoulder, saying, "You must agree to this, and recommend the loaning of the money to the Railroad. You must do it." Any hesitation about this?

You have it now, gentlemen, as it really was. In view of this, then, we assert that more money was lost to the county through the fault of the last Democratic Board of Commissioners than has been expended by all the Republican Commissioners of the county for county purposes, outside of the jail and bounty purposes. Yet these are the men and this the party that now cry out so loudly for reform, and make such an ado over the expenditures of a few hundred dollars to meet the necessities of the war, and berate the present Commissioners so horribly for their humanity in attending to the wants of those rendered needy by the war. Of Sholes and Ritchie we have nothing to say personally. They acted as their friends advised, but they and the party are responsible. As they invited the investigation they must abide by it.

WOMEN, children, and non-combatants! the "unterrified" propose moving upon the works of the Loyal people of this county immediately. Our advice is: remain quiet; do not be alarmed. We think that the Rebels have learned from experience that when they move upon the works of the loyal and brave, that they are replied to, gun for gun. We are satisfied that there is security under the "good old flag."

GEN. ALCORN, United States Senator from Mississippi, has applied for a teacher's situation in a freedmen's school at Fross Point.

THE editor of the Local makes a characteristic attack upon the Judges of the Court for the sentence passed. It is not our place to defend, or it is not his to denounce. Judges are not, and should not be, influenced by partizan motives, or be assailed or upheld by either party. If anything is sacred from politics, it is Courts of Justice. We have three honest, upright, right-thinking men upon the Bench. They act independently, with a full sense of their responsibility and duties, and we believe, firmly, uninfluenced by any motive, person or party. No man we are assured would dare approach either of our Judges to suggest any consideration, not founded in justice and right, for their action. If politicians had passed sentence on Mr. Odell, we assure him from our own knowledge he would have been as much surprised at its mildness as he seems to have been at what he calls its severity. The Judges felt it their duty to vindicate the dignity of the law, and they did so. Looking at the offense simply as we would at any other offense, the sentence seems very mild. The law provides that for one libel a sentence of one thousand dollars and one year to jail may be passed. In this case, there was a conviction for two outrageous libels, published with a full knowledge that they had been made and refuted before and followed up by at least a dozen others extending through a space of six months. A lighter sentence than the one passed would have laid the Court open to the charge of being governed with reference to politics. Had it been any other offense, or had it not assumed a political aspect merely from the relation of the parties, no one would have expected the defendant to escape with less than six months imprisonment. Libeling is a crime, and as such has to be punished. Thus the Court looked at it. The defendant having been convicted (by a jury that he cannot get through praising, because they did not convict him on a number of other counts) on two counts, for "wickedly, wilfully and maliciously" writing, printing, publishing and libeling John H. Beighley, he should have expected the same treatment that is meted out to other criminals. The people will of course understand hereafter what reliance to place on his statements.

WHAT party was it in Beaver county that in the early days of secession declared that in the event of war between the North and South, would shoulder their arms and go forth to aid their brethren of the South? The Democratic party.

What party in Beaver county was it that declared if there was to be war that we would have it at home, and a s— would be kept up front and rear? The Democratic party.

What party in Beaver county was it that declared the war a failure, put on the gayest appearance after the defeat of our armies, and asserted the South never could be conquered? The Democratic party.

What party in Beaver county was it that called our soldiers "Lincoln's hirelings," and our army the unorganized mob? The Democratic party.

To what party did the men belong in Beaver county who counselled resistance to the draft, declared openly their sorrow at the capture of Lee, and rejoiced at the assassination of Lincoln? The Democratic party.

Soldiers, friends of the country, it is the same party that now asks you to support their candidates for office. Will you do it?

IT is wonderful what small arguments our neighbor up street will produce against a political opponent, and it is equally wonderful that decent Democrats are not ashamed of them. We did hear one Democrat say it was an outrage, but he is the only one.—For instance, if Mrs. Quay gets a breast-pin, or Quay's little boy a new chip hat, it is immediately taken notice of, and heralded abroad as an argument against Quay's re election.—Our candidates or their families can't speak, turn, remain quiet, or in fact do anything that is not misconstrued and converted into political capital—This is a small business. It might do for a community of gossiping old women, but for a man and an editor it is shameful. Certainly he has a high appreciation of the taste and culture of his readers.

A WAR in Europe now seems inevitable. The conference called to settle difficulties has adjourned without accomplishing anything, and Europe is preparing for war. Austria, Prussia and Italy will be directly involved, and eventually we fear all Europe.—We would fain hope so dire a calamity might be averted. There is no occasion for war, but it seems the nations referred to cannot longer survive without going to war. War has become a chronic disease with the Europeans.

THE Fenians, in various convocations, are denouncing the President for the rigor with which he has enforced the neutrality laws.

THE charge that Col. Quay voted for the Raid Bill, after pledging himself not to do so, is simply false and ridiculous. He voted for a bill granting relief to the citizens of Chambersburg, who had been burned out by the rebels, but that bill was as separate and distinct from the relief bill of the former session as it was possible to be. Almost every Senator and member of the Legislature voted for the relief bill of last session, and the editor of the Local is the first editor in the State who has denounced it. We don't envy the heart or loyalty of the man who would withhold aid from the destitute and suffering under such circumstances. A Democratic legislature voted a large sum of money years ago to the relief of the sufferers from a fire in one of our large cities, and we honor them for so doing. It would be right and humane to do so again. At least equally worthy of commendation was the vote of last winter, giving relief to the poor, homeless, destitute sufferers of Chambersburg, who lost their all by the inhumanity and barbarism of rebels.—We honor the Democrats who voted for the bill, and have only to say for those who find it in their heart to censure or denounce, that they deserve a place in history alongside that of M'Causland's vandal hordes. It is a manifestation of the same spirit that prompted the burning of Chambersburg, and may be traced to the same origin, viz: hatred to the cause of the Union and everything that strengthens it or reflects on rebels.

At the Union Convention in Washington county, last week, Hon. Geo. V. Lawrence received the nomination for Congress, Col. A. W. Taylor was nominated for Senate without the formality of a conference, and Cols. Ewing and Day were nominated for Assembly. Wm. McKennan, Esq., Wm. M'Daniel, Esq., and Major John H. Ewing were appointed Judicial Conferees, with instructions to support Hon. A. W. Acheson for Judge, if he would permit the use of his name.—Mr. Lawrence having received the nomination in all the counties of the District, is the nominee for Congress without the necessity of a Conference. We congratulate the people of the District on the nomination of our worthy and able representative. His election is certain, no matter who may be his opponent.

A REPORT to the effect that Governor Curtin would not support General Geary having obtained currency, the Bellefonte Press is authorized by the Governor to say that he is now, and has from the first been, a firm and unconditional supporter of the nomination of General Geary, and shall, so far as in him lies, advocate his election.

Political.

The Reading Gazette, the copper head organ of Berks county, stoutly claims that Mr. Clymer is "the John son candidate for Governor"

Complete returns from every district in Crawford county give S. N Pettis from five to twenty-five majority over D.A Finney, for the Union congressional nomination.

Hon. George V. Lawrence, representative in Congress from this district, has been unanimously nominated for re-election by the Republicans of the four counties of Lawrence, Beaver, Greene and Washington, of which it is composed.

At the Republican primary meetings in Westmoreland county, Joseph Buffington had no opponent for President Judge. John Covode was nominated for Congress, and Colonel F. T. Gallagher for Assembly. The "copa," at their primary meeting, nominated Edward J. Keenan for Congress, and Samuel Rock for Assembly.

The Ohio Union State Convention met on the 20th and nominated the following ticket: Secretary of State, William Henry Smith, of Hamilton county; Judge of the Supreme Court, Josiah Scott, of Butler; Member of Board of Public Works, John M. Barres. Among the resolutions adopted was one endorsing the recently-proposed Constitutional Amendments.

James G. Blaine was nominated on on Friday for re election to Congress from the Third district of Maine. A resolution was adopted congratulating the people of the district upon the ability, faithfulness and patriotism of their representative in Congress, who is now nominated for the third time.

The Representative Conferees of the Assembly district, composed of Mercer, Lawrence and Butler counties, met in Centreville on Wednesday, when Hon. Josiah M'Pherrin and Jas. A. Leech, of Mercer, W. C. Harbison, of Lawrence, and Harvey Pillow, of Butler, were nominated by acclamation as the Union candidates for the Legislature.

MR. WASHBURN, for the Congressional Committee to investigate the Memphis riots, in private conversation, reports that a deplorably bad condition of things exists in Memphis.—The temper and feeling of the people is as bad if not worse than at any previous period since the outbreak of the rebellion. He believes that nothing but a strong military government will preserve peace in that district for years to come. The Committee examined one hundred and seventy witnesses, whose testimony will probably cover 2,000 pages of manuscript. The Committee hope to be able to report soon.

EDITORS ARGUS: The beligerents of Beaver county held a council of war in Beaver on the 18th inst., and purpose moving upon the works of the Union men of this County immediately. If those stay-at-home warriors had been with their Country's Soldiers under either of the gallant heroes, Grant or Geary, they would have learned other tactics than to proclaim their plans to their enemy before an attempt to execute them.—This chivalry with whose history you are conversant during the past four bloody years, would make you believe now that they are panting for war. Poor cowardly curses, upon whom do they purpose making a war? Upon whose works do they purpose moving? Upon the works of the Union Invincibles, who for four long years stood between them and battle! Upon the works of that patriotic host, to whom this Republic to-day owes its existence! Upon the works of men whom they tried to disfranchise, simply because they were loyal! Moving upon the works of men who while confronting a formidible foe in the enemies country about to be overpowered, looked across the northern hill-tops, lifted their bleeding hands, and beckoned for aid and assistance in that hour of their countries great exigency, but met the response from these same belligerents, "not another man, nor another dollar for the prosecution of your abolition war,"—but we will demonstrate to the world that our friends in the South must and shall succeed. We wonder if these rampant warriors are aware that they are about to move upon the works of the very men who lay a few hundred thousand of their allies in traitors' graves, when they attempted to move upon the works of this great and good Government.

They may instruct their aliens and hirelings to continue in the abuse of loyalty, piety and education, officials, preachers, teachers and private citizens; but still they cannot spring issues upon the people that are not before them with the view of concealing their infamous record. Why, to be a Democrat of such a cast to-day, is to be more infamous than to have been an armed traitor. The Union men of Beaver county, and of this good old Commonwealth, will vote for the principles, for the preservation of which they gave of their wealth, blood and treasure without stint, and without limit, and never will blight the reputation they have gained by voting with and for rebels who opposed them four years in a civil war.

The Soldiers of Pennsylvania, the controlling power in the State, have determined that when Clymer leads his vulgar herd forth against our gallant Geary, that he and the boys whom he so gloriously led, will, with willing ballots, consign them to a dishonorable political grave, beyond the hope of a resurrection.

LOYALIST.

DARLINGTON, May 28, 1866.

Editors Argus: The citizens of this village and vicinity, as well as numerous strangers from other localities, assembled in the M. E Church, of this place, on last Thursday evening, to witness the exhibition of the "Lincoln Literary Society" and Darlington school. Darlington in days gone by, was not unjustly celebrated throughout this and adjoining counties, as a seat of learning on account of the situation here of the endowed institution known as the Darlington Academy, which was for many years a success. Connected therewith, was the "Philo. Literary Society," the annual exhibition of which were high-toned in sentiment and character. Many useful men, some of whom have filled and yet fill high stations in life, look to this as their only Alma Mater. A combination of inauspicious circumstances conspired to weaken the influence and prosperity of this venerable institution, and after a few years of unrequited labor on the part of teachers and friends to reinstate its wasted vitality, the effort was abandoned, and a total suspension was the result. The building being left vacant, was suffered to run to waste and so pernicious was the effect on the minds of the people, that for a time Darlington Borough was numbered by the State Department among the non accepting districts of the provisions of the Public School System.

About a year ago an effort was made in the right quarter to resurrect the institution so long defunct. Craftsmen were employed who set about in good earnest to repair the building, which, being a stone structure, was found yet substantial in the main. This completed, the services of Prof. J B. Rhodes, of Beaver, were secured as Principal, who with the aid of competent assistants and popular co-operation, organized and has since carried on the Darlington Union School. The "Lincoln Literary Society" was established in connection with the school by Mr. R., to the success of which as well as the school, he owes his deserved popularity as an instructor. It was the previous announcement of a public performance on the stage by the young ladies and gentlemen members of this society and school, that moved the good people of the village and neighborhood to a general turn out on Thursday evening. Not wishing to particularize to any great extent, these remarks on the evening's entertainment will be confined to a few general observations.—The taste evinced in the selection of performances, and the arrangement of the programme, reflects credit on all concerned therewith. Printed programmes were freely distributed among the audience, which contributed much to the enjoyment of the occasion. First came the instrumental prelude, then the opening prayer, followed by an original salutatory, after which were the performances generally consisting of orations, essays, declamations, recitations, tableaux, colloquies, comedies and music, both instrumental and vocal, the latter consisting of solos, duetts, trios and choruses, all of which were blended into a varied and most agreeable, interesting and instructive entertainment, where in the performers, without exception, acquitted themselves in a manner wholly satisfactory to their friends, and highly creditable to themselves. Previous to the pronouncing of the benediction, numerous requests were sent up to the conductor, from the audience, for a repetition of the entertainment. For the benefit of the many who were unable to find even standing room in the church, but were obliged to remain outside during the evening, it was announced that the performances would be repeated on the following evening, the proceeds to be applied for the benefit of the M. E. Sunday School. It is necessary only to add that the repetition was quite as attentively listened to by the large and appreciative audience present, as was the first performance; and it was thought by many that the performances were even more creditable than on the first occasion. The citizens of Darlington feel a just pride in the reformatory impetus that is now being given to the cause of education in our midst.

I take the liberty to add that Mr. R. has opened a Select School, at Darlington, for the especial accommodation of advanced pupils.

SOJOURNER.

Campaigns of the ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

BY WILLIAM SWINTON.

The standard history of the Grand army.

The Greatest Work of the War.

Universally endorsed by army officers and the press. The Author says:—

"I design in this volume to record what that Army did and suffered in ten campaigns and two score battles."

"I shall have to celebrate the unswerving loyalty of this army, that oftimes when the bond of military cohesion failed, held it, unshaken of fortune, to a duty self-imposed."

"I shall have to follow it through a checkered experience, in a tale commingled of great misfortunes, great follies and great glories; but from first to last it will appear that, amid many buffets of fortune, through "winter and rough weather," the Army of the Potomac never gave up, but made a good fight, and finally reached the goal."

The Army and Navy Journal says:—

This is the only American critical work on the late war, and it is thoroughly critical and entirely divested of all political hue or tone."

This is the only History of the "Grand Army," and no one who has borne a part in its conflicts, or is interested in its grand achievements, should be without it.

This work sells itself. The people are tired of political and partisan histories, and want something from official sources. We have Agents clearing over $200 per month. Send for circulars; and see our terms and proof of the above assertion. Address

☞ WM. BINGHAM, JR., 54 Fifth st., Pittsburg, is the authorized agent for the ARGUS in that city.

☞ We learn that a little boy, son of Capt. James Johnston, of Fallston, was drowned on Monday last by falling from a raft into the creek, at that place.

MOWING MATCH.—A. B. Wolf, Esq., having accepted the challenge of Mr. J. R. Hays, for a trial of mowing machines, the contest will come off on 3d day of July, at 10 o'clock, on the farm of Ritchie Eakin, in Brighton township.

☞ The fire in Beaver, on Monday, shows the necessity of insuring, and we take pleasure in stating that Joseph M'Clure, of this place, is agent of four reliable Insurance Companies. Call on him at once and insure.

☞ The Examination in the Seminary commences this (Wednesday) morning, and continues throughout the day and to-morrow. The Soiree takes place in the M. E. Church, Beaver, Wednesday evening. An admission fee of 50 cents will be charged. We understand a rich treat is in store for the lovers of good music. Those who were present at the close of the winter term, will readily believe that Prof. Ambuhl will present them no second rate entertainment. Commencement exercises take place Thursday evening, in the same place. No boys will be admitted either of these evenings.

☞ The meeting of the Beaver Borough Teachers' Institute has been postponed two weeks. Hence the next meeting will be held on Thursday evening, July 12th, commencing at half past seven o'clock. The order of exercises embraces class drills on Mental and Practical Arithmetic, an essay by Mr. McMillan, an open discussion on the propriety of offering prizes as incentives to study, a Popular Lecture by Rev. Lowary, and a song by the teachers.

As one of the objects of the Institute is to arouse an interest in the cause of education, all parents and patrons of the school, and friends to the cause generally, are most earnestly invited to attend.

FIRE.—A fire broke out in the smoke house of Major Thomas M'Creery, of this place, on Monday last, about half-past six in the morning, and quickly communicated to the Warehouse adjoining the main building. The fire spread rapidly, notwithstanding the efforts made to check it, and soon the building was in flames. It was with great effort the fine residence of Mr. M'Creery was saved. Had the roof been shingle instead of tin, nothing could have saved, not only that building, but the entire square. That the fire was checked without destroying it, is certainly marvelous, and can only be accounted for by the stillness of the morning. Hundreds of people were on the ground, but the most complete disorder reigned, and it was with the utmost difficulty the work of extinguishing the flames was systematized. A fire is a rare occurrence in Beaver—this being the first one, we believe, for ten years. To our astonishment, an engine was produced, which worked well.

The loss of Major M'Creery we learn will amount to over two thousand dollars, on which there is no insurance. The warehouse was stored with flour, grain, hardware, &c., which was all lost, or nearly so. The loss, although heavy, in view of what it might have been, seems light. Maj. M'Creery had at least twenty thousand dollars worth of property endangered, and has therefore great reason to be thankful. We trust we may have at least ten years more without another fire, and that in the meantime we may prepare better.

FALSE STATEMENT CORRECTED IN REGARD TO CHICKERING'S PIANOS.—The following correspondence between Messrs. Chickering & Sons and Mr. C. C. Mellor, their agent for Pittsburg and vicinity, explains itself:—

MESSRS. CHICKERING & SONS, Boston—Gentlemen:—A rival piano establishment in this city has endeavored to prejudice the minds of persons against your Pianos, by representing that the Messrs. Chickering have nothing to do now with the manufacture of the "Chickering" Pianos; the management of the factory being entirely in other hands. And also, asserting that the quality of your instruments has very much deteriorated of late, and giving the above as a reason. Both statements being so entirely untrue, I wish to have them contradicted over your own signature.

Yours, &c., CHAS. C MELLOR.

[ANSWER.]

MR. C. C. MELLOR, Pittsburgh—Dear Sir: The statement which you say has been circulated in your city "that we have nothing to do now with the manufacture of what is known as the Chickering Pianos, and that the management of our factory is entirely in other hands," is, as you must be well aware, utterly false. Our factory is entirely under our own control, and the business is carried on, as it always has been, by ourselves alone, and solely for our own account. That the quality of our manufacture has not deteriorated, may be inferred from the fact that, though we are making more instruments than ever before, we are utterly unable to supply the demand for them. As we are almost daily making improvements in our instruments, we can also truly say that they are greatly superior to any which we have heretofore manufactured.

Very truly yours,

CHICKERING & SONS.

☞ See advertisement in another column.

Messrs. Editors: My communication in response to the inquiry of the Local seems to have wounded the feelings of Wm Henry, and he has embraced the opportunity of penning a long letter to be read by the good people of Beaver county, which I believe to have been the object of the informant of the Local, to give him a chance to appear in the public press, that the people of the rural townships might learn that the blow which Col. Taylor gave him on the 28th ult. did not quite produce death; but that he still survives, and is full of enmity towards some of his political opponents. I seem to be the object of his wrath as you will perceive his letter is filled with personal remarks and, as I am able to show you, false statements relative to myself. There can only be one reason why he thus attacks me, which I conceive to be because I am a personal friend, and advocated the nomination of Col. A. W. Taylor for State Senate. His friends promised him Darlington township at the primary meeting, but the soldiers and their friends "couldn't see it," hence Col. Taylor was the choice of the loyal people of Darlington township, by eighteen of a majority; and in my opinion if the primary meeting was to come off yet, that instead of eighteen of a majority, that it would be above forty. I know my inability to write as fluent letters as an ex-editor and badly beaten politician, but possess the power and faculty of speaking the truth as well as he.

Mr. Henry says "the statement of Dr. Shurlock is in many respects quite remarkable; and how far he and I may differ will best be understood by a plain statement of facts." Now I propose to show to the public that the statement of Wm Henry relative to the story which he blames me for circulating, and over which he is now howling, is quite as remarkable to me as mine perhaps is to him; and "how far he and I may differ" can be seen and understood from the certified statements of Mr. Jos. Anderson and Dr. J. W. Gardner. I never said anything publicly or privately about Mr. Henry but what I can stand on; but Mr Henry claims that I said things which I tell him plainly I did not; and he denies some of my statements, which I tell him as plainly he did say. At the time he speaks of having called upon me, he denies leaving satisfied with my explanation of the story now in question, and says with much sarcasm, "satisfied," "that I had been basely slandered, &c." Now I re-assert that he was satisfied, and so expressed himself to me, before Dr. Gardner; also after leaving me he told Dr. Gardner that my explanation was satisfactory, and repeated the same thing to Mr. Joseph Anderson, the man with whom he stopped over night, with the addition that he did not think anything had been told by me that would do him any harm.

He also says "I called upon Dr. Shurlock, who then admitted that he had added to the story," &c, and that I had "deprecated" an exposure of the affair in the public press.

I deny it, and say it is false. I did not admit to Mr. Henry that I had added to the story; also I deny that I "deprecated" an exposure of the affair in the public press. When he spoke of having the facts published, I made no reply until he asked Dr. Gardner and myself our opinion of the propriety of making a public statement, to which I replied, "That is with yourself; do as you think best about it; but my opinion is it will only give the affair publicity;" at the same time assuring him that not one dozen persons in Darlington borough or township knew anything about the story; when he said that he had asked several persons about it, but all had told him, much to his surprise that they had not heard it, and from this fact he believed that it had not become generally known. Now, sir, does this go to show that I "gave it to the winds and let it travel," as Mr. Henry alleges? I think the reader will say with me that I did not. Permit me to say that Mr. Henry and his friends gave the story more publicity than I or any one of his political opponents; and the fact of him having forced upon me this public correspondence, will show him up in a light never seen before, and perhaps make him as odious to the people of Beaver county as that which his recent communication was intended to make me. What I published in reply to the Local I stand over as being all, in substance, of what I did say about this unpleasant affair; and I again deny of admitting the addition of any single word or sentence, or departing in the least from that which I did utter, notwithstanding the assertions of that tried and honest man, Wm. Henry, to the contrary.—Having now answered some of his personal slurs to myself, in his communication, I present to the public the certified statements spoken of before, (and if needs be, can produce them under oath from the gentlemen,) as corroborating evidence of the truth of what I have written and previously said in connection with that story, and for the present I leave the matter with the intelligent reading community of Beaver county to decide which is the most powerful, "fiction or truth."

Yours truly,
W C. SHURLOCK.

Darlington, Pa., June 20, 1866.

Having been called upon by Wm Henry, in regard to a conversation between Dr. Shurlock and myself, relating to sale of Beaver county R. R. Bonds, I asked him to accompany me to the Doctor's office, and then requested the Dr. to make a statement of the conversation. He did so. Mr. Henry said he had thought of publishing the facts in regard to the sale of the Bonds, but by making inquiry was surprised to find that so few had heard it. He then asked the Dr. and myself what we thought of the propriety of making a public statement. Dr. S. replied, "That is with yourself, do as you think best about it; but my opinion is that it will only give it publicity?" That he did not believe that one dozen persons in Darlington borough and township had ever heard it; in which statement I concurred.—Dr. S. did not demur from having it published, as stated by Wm. Henry; neither did he admit that he had added to the story, but said he probably suggested that some one was the gainer. While at the Doctor's, and also after leaving, Mr. Henry expressed himself as satisfied with the explanation of Dr. S., but might see a few of his friends in regard to the propriety of publishing the matter.

J. W. GARDNER

Darlington, June 20, 1866.

I do hereby certify that Mr. Wm. Henry told me in the morning after seeing Dr. Shurlock, that his explanation was satisfactory, and that he would not take any further notice of it, as he believed it would not do him any harm. In this I am willing to be sworn. JOSEPH ANDERSON.

Darlington, June 20, 1866.

Presentment of the Grand Jury.

The following presentment was made by the late Grand Jury, and ordered to be printed in the County papers by the Court. We ask candid men of all parties to read it, and also read the names of those who sign it. There are Democrats on whose candor we may rely, even when it does conflict with party movements:

To the Honorable, the Judges of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Beaver: The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, now inquiring in and for the body of the County of Beaver, respectfully do present, that with the permission, and in pursuance of the suggestions of your Honors, they visited, on Wednesday, June 6th, the County Poor House, and spent considerable time in examing into the condition of the inmates, their wants and necessities, and also the condition of the premises connected with said House of Employment. They find about fifty-seven inmates, and, with the exception of want of room, all are as well accommodated and cared for as it is possible for them to be, and are satisfied and cheerful, speaking in the highest terms of the Steward and Stewardess, who, they say, bestows every care and attention upon them, and for whom they entertain the highest respect and love. In the opinion of the Grand Jurors, everything about the buildings and pertaining to Paupers or public property, is in as good condition, and as well cared for as it is possible to be, and they must express their surprise at finding everything in the condition that it is.—They further present that the farm is in a good state of repair and cultivation. The fences are nearly all newly built, and the crops promise well. There are three (3) young orchards on the premises in good condition, as is also the stock and out-buildings.—From all they saw and heard, the Grand Jurors are compelled to say, that in the present Steward and his Lady, they find the right persons in the right place. Although they believe at no distant day, new buildings should be erected to accommodate the paupers, they would not at present recommend their erection, hoping that soon the cost of their erection may be much below present prices; yet they would refer to the growing necessity of ample accommodations, and trust at the earliest practicable moment such buildings may be erected as the wants of the institutions demand. They do recommend however that a new chimney be at once built in the Wash House, as the present one smokes so dreadfully as to be unendurable.

On Thursday, June 7th, the Grand Inquest visited the County Jail and found the Jail clean, comfortable and in good condition, with the exception of the roof, which leaks very badly, and we would recommend that the commissioners be instructed to have it thoroughly repaired.

BEWARE OF PAPER COLLARS.—A Boston paper has a report that a clerk in one of the wholesale stores of that city has lately been afflicted with a painful breaking out on the neck, which he at first attributed to boils but the matter getting serious, he applied to a physician, who informed his patient that he was suffering from the poisonous properties of articles used in the preparation of his enamelled paper collars which had been absorbed into his system; and upon inquiry it was found that some half dozen other clerks, all of whom wore these collars, were affected in a similar manner.

SWINTON'S HISTORY OF THE CAMPAIGNS OF THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.—We call attention to the advertisement of this book in another column. This is said to be the finest work yet published. Mr. Swinton is well known as the able army correspondent of the New York Times, and was with the Army of the Potomac in all its campaigns, and since the close of the war he has re-visited the prominent battle-fields and places of interest. This book contains a number of portraits of leading Generals, and correct maps of the battle-grounds. It is sold only by subscription.

MORE SPINDLE.—The Waverly oil company struck a splendid well on Island Run, close to the old Ormes well, last week. The well is owned by Childs, Darragh & Co.

The Smith's Ferry and Little Beaver Petroleum company made a good strike on Friday, near the station, at Smith's Ferry, at a depth of 600 feet.

BIOKRENE OR LIFE-REJUVENATOR.

STRENGTH TO THE WEAK! YOUTH TO THE AGED!

This preparation is unequalled as a Rejuvenator and Restorer of wasted or inert functions.

The aged should be certain to make the Biokrene a household god, inasmuch as it will render them youthful in feeling and in strength, and enable them to live over again the days of their pristine joy. It not only exhilarates but strengthens, and is really an invaluable blessing, especially to those who have been reduced to a condition of servility, self abuse, misfortune, or ordinary sickness. No matter what the cause of the impotency of any human organ, this superb preparation will remove the effect at once and forever.

Biokrene

Cures Impotency, General Debility, Nervous Incapacity, Dyspepsia, Depression, Loss of Appetite, Low Spirits, weakness of the Organs of Generation, Imbecility, Mental Indolence, Emaciation, Ennui. It has a most delightful, desirable and swel effect upon the nervous system; and all who are in any way prostrated by nervous disabilities are earnestly advised to seek a cure in this most excellent and unequalled preparation.

Persons who, by imprudence, have lost their natural vigor, will find a speedy and permanent cure in the Biokrene.

The Feeble, the Languid, the Dispairing, the Old should give this valuable discovery a trial; it will be found totally different from all other articles for the same purposes.

TO FEMALES.—This preparation is invaluable in nervous weakness of all kinds, as it will restore the wasted strength with wonderful permanence.

It is also a grand tonic, and will give relief to Dyspepsia with the first dose. A brief persistence in its use will renovate the stomach to a degree of perfect health and banish Dyspepsia forever.

One dollar per Bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by Druggist generally.

Sent by express anywhere, by addressing

RICH'D. H. AGNEW,

CONVEYANCER, &c.

DEEDS and other instruments written.—Office with Clerk of Courts, west wing of Court House.

CHICKERING & SON'S

PIANO-FORTES.

THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE FIRM. The celebrated Manufactory of Pianos was founded in Boston, in 1823, by the late Jonas Chickering, whose mechanical skill, practical ingenuity and untiring industry soon placed him as the foremost Piano maker in this country, and his instruments far beyond those of his competitors. His name is inseparably connected with the history of the progress of the Piano on account of the many valuable improvements introduced, the perfection of his manufacture and the vast quantity of his production.

THE PRESENT FIRM consists of the Sons of Jonas Chickering, who assumed the management of business on his decease in 1853.—They are all practical piano-makers, each one having served at the work bench and learned every part of the manufacture of Pianos.—Their skill, enterprise and ambition has enabled them not only to sustain the unrivaled reputation they inherited, but to greatly increase it. No efforts have been left untried by Chickering Sons to furnit or perfect their instruments, experiments and changes have been made without number, until they have attained their present surpassing excellence.

The late improvements made by Chickering & Sons, within the last two years, have been of the most marked character, by which a great volume and purity of tone is obtained, combined with sweet singing quality rivaling the human voice. By recent improvements in the action," the touch is rendered more elastic and prompt, so that rapid, difficult music can be performed with the greatest facility without fatigue.

The Facilities for the Manufacturing possessed by Chickering & Sons, are unequalled. Their Factory is larger than any Piano Factory in America by nearly one third, and more than double as large as any in Europe. It is provided with every kind of labor-saving machinery (much of which is peculiar to the Factory, being the invention of the Messrs. Chickering themselves,) by which the work is done better and with more uniformity than by hand. The great extent of the drying rooms enables them to always have on hand a large supply of properly seasoned wood, which is absolutely necessary for the production of a durable instrument. By these means a regular excellence is attained in the Chickering Pianos.

The merits of the new Pianos are so great and so apparent that they have gained the approval of the best artists of the country and caused them to be sought after more than ever by the public.

The Chickering Pianos are Undeniably the Most Perfect Pianos Made.

Every Instrument warranted for five years.

The subscribers are the authorized exclusive agents for Chickering & Sons, for Pittsburg, Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, and West Virginia, and by special arrangement are enabled to sell their Pianos at exactly the SAME PRICE AS AT THE FACTORY, at Boston, thus saving purchasers the cost of transportation and risk.

A choice assortment always to be found at this Agency.

"Use the Best!"

DR. CLOCK'S

EXCELSIOR HAIR RESTORER IS THE best ever offered to the public and the only preparation that all the merits claimed for it. It restored gray hair to its original color; has made grow on bald heads when falling off from disease; removes Scruff, Dandruff, etc.; arrests its falling off or turning gray; cures sick headache and all diseases of the scalp; causes harsh, wiry hair to become soft, pliable and luxuriantly glossy. It is elegantly perfumed, and all that can be desired for a dressing. It contains no sugar of lead or other mineral so injurious to the head and hair, and of which most preparations now in use are composed, but is a purely vegetable compound. WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD to produce an instance where the Restorer has failed when used according to directions. Among the thousands who have used it we have yet to learn of one who is not perfectly satisfied with its results. Hair, when renewed is with marvelous rapidity restored to all its pristine beauty by its use. It is not a dye, but by supplying the secretions of the capillary glands acts as a restorer. Mothers, whose children's hair is harsh, wiry, or thin and scant, will find by using the Restorer it will immediately improve and may be dressed in any desired form, thus laying the foundation for a good head of hair, so desirable in after life. The proprietor is aware of the many who have been disappointed by the high sounding pretense of the numerous preparations with which the market has been filled for a few years past, but such entire confidence does he place in the merits of his Restorer that he offers, in all cases, to refund the money if, after a thorough trial of two bottles, it fails to give perfect satisfaction. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its merits. Put up in large bottles and sold by all druggists at $1 pr bottle.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

Dr. Duponco's

Golden Periodical Pills,

FOR FEMALES.

Infallible in Correcting Irregularties, Removing Obstructions of the Monthly Turns, from Whatever Cause, and ALWAYS SUCCESSFUL AS A PREVENTIVE.

It is now over thirty years since the above celebrated Pills were first discovered by Dr. DUPONCO, of Paris, during which time they have been extensively and successfully used in most of the public institutions, as well as in private practice, of both hemispheres, with unparalleled success in every case, and it is only at the "urgent request" of the thousands of Ladies who have used them, that he introduced to make the Pills public for the alleviation of those suffering from any Irregularities whatever, as well as to prevent an increase of family, where health will not permit it. Females peculiarly situated, or those supposing themselves so, are cautioned against using these Pills while in that condition, as the proprietor assumes no responsibilities after the above admonition, although their mildness would prevent any mischief to health, otherwise the Pills are recommended.

Price $1,00 per Box. Six Boxes $5,00.

Sold by S. Smith, Bridgewater, Noble & Hamilton, Beaver, S. Hannen, Rochester.

Ladies! By sending $1,00 to either of the above agents, can have the pills sent (confidentially) by mail, to any part of the country, or address the Proprietor,

HAIR-DRESSER, &C.

JAMES BRUIN is happy to announce to his old customers, that he has been discharged from the service of the United States, and opened a shop in the frame building adjoining Wm. Orr's Store. Ladies' hair cut in the most approved style. He trusts his old friends will renew their patronage. Having carried the flag of the 45th Reg. U. S. C. T. for almost a year, in the battles around Petersburg, he thinks himself entitled to a fair share of the public patronage.
